Mais où est donc le Pont Couvert à Sainte-Catherine-de-Hatley?

Built in 1928, the Sainte-Catherine covered bridge spanned Misseau Creek. Its walls were used as posting space for auctions and elections, and it was a popular gathering place for smelt fishing. Decommissioned in 1970, it was ultimately destroyed by arson in 1985. Today, the Covered Bridge Rest Area offers a place to relax and access to a trail along the water.
