Legends of the Massawippi lake

Lake Massawippi is an exceptional place that has been the scene of multiple stories and mysteries that inspired a compendium of tales and legends. A copy of it, surprisingly stamped with the date June 17, was sent to you without further explanation and you did not give it much thought. However, when the date arrived, at exactly midnight, the surrounding air was filled with a strange energy, the book magically lit up and all the pages turned white!

Since then, creatures, characters and objects straight out of the stories in the compendium have been seen spotted in various places around the lake. The local municipalities are calling for your help: explore these places to find the elements of tales and legends that have escaped and bring them back into the book!

Wilfrid Laurier Park

Wilfrid Lareau Park, located on the grounds of the Ste-Catherine-de-Hatley Town Hall, offers a resting area and a view of the mountains, cultivated fields, wooded areas, and hills to the west, in addition to a bike repair station.

The park is named in honor of Wilfrid Lareau's commitment to the community. In 1926, he temporarily welcomed the nuns who had just arrived in the village. In 1937, he built with his own hands the roadside cross at the entrance to the village, using wood he had purchased himself. This symbol of faith and community dedication was acquired by the municipality in 1986.
